Kim Harrison - Gaspesian British Heritage Village is an 82-acre provincially designated heritage site that preserves and promotes the history of the English-speaking community of the area and provides a gathering place for the community. The Village provides a forum for English-speakers to celebrate their collective identity and works to increase the visibility of the English-speaking community of the Gaspé Coast and sensitize the French-speaking majority to the important contributions that the English-speaking community has, and continues to make, to the fabric of the region > Google.com
